

ST. MIHEL DRIVE DESCRIBED BY SMITH

Overseas Veteran Delivers eloquent Address To Large And Appreciative Audience

Excerpts from Col. Smith's address:

"Find a buck private and you will find a hero."

"When the Americans fought the Germans, the Americans whipped the Germans."

"I, what you can for the soldier—and do it now."

"God picked a few, and was betrayed by one of them. Would you be surprised to find a few bad ones in an army of 3,000,000?"

"Judge the soldier by the average, not by a selected few."

"The average soldier returned with much less than he started, except in the way of experience."

"Don't wait forty years and place flowers on their graves—help them while alive."

"Many a soldier was willing to give up his life, who had no home to come back to after returning to America."

"Don't forget, the buck private was there, first, last and all the time."

"Just get this, please—September 13, with several hundred killed and the air filled with gas from shells that had humanity strewn over the ground, the battalion men going forward—those who were left singing, 'Every little fragment of shell has a death knell of its own'—some dead, others dying, nothing to eat, but going forward with that determination and bravery that placed American fighters at the head of the rank of the world. Can you beat that fighting spirit?"

"Remember, there are many soldiers back home who did not expect to ever see America again—make them feel at home; give them a start."

A vivid word picture, depicting scenes on the battlefields of France, a verbal portrayal of life and death characterizing the American fighter illustrating his indomitable bravery and will power, eloquently delivered, was the treat in store Saturday afternoon at the courthouse when Col. Smith of the 358th Infantry, A. E. F., addressed an appreciative audience.

Marines and civilians, a latter of whom were a few of the Civil war, and a libeling of ladies that made audience introduced to the leader by Commander H. of Richmond, of Jesse M. No. 12, American Legion, interest the meeting was by Commander Rice first Eugene K. Moynahan, campaign committee, who structively upon the sub organization, its aims a vent manner, explained aim to get all ex-servants ranks, etc. Mr. Moynahan that while the enrollment encouraging thus far, it is sure to make the local post strongest in pointed of this part of the state.

Col. Smith, upon being immediately presented the audience with the fact that he was here to tell them as much as possible within a very short time, and he curtailed his address somewhat, owing to circumstances governing his visit here.

Col. Smith protected the soldier, from his superior officer to the buck private. He said: "I was a Major when the war broke out. I had been in the army service for almost forty years. I resigned my position and went 1,500 miles from my home in Chicago to enlist, and I joined the ranks as a buck private, and this perhaps is one reason I have such a warm spot in my heart for them. I know what they are made of. I want to see them protected, and aided—now. Don't wait forty years and then build a monument to their memory and place flowers upon their graves, but help them now."

Do what you are going to do, now. This is the time they need it. Many of them came home with less than they started with, except experience. Give them a square deal. I can see them all, or imagine I can now, as they crouched before the German advance, which could not be stayed, until the Americans arrived. We had not only to stop them, but to hold them clear the way then drive. This is where the slaughter began. You could not discern in the darkness, at times, until too close to shoot and it was a hand to hand battle to the death. My ranks were greatly reduced, however it was drive, drive, drive; and to do this, we went into the open, and records will show that over 600 of our young men gave their lives before that battle of St. Mihiel was won, on and after Sept. 12th. "Ever little fragment of shell has a death knell of its own," sang the Americans. Think of that! There was mud and blood, the cry that went up here and there, during intervals between the rain of fire was "onward." I turned to a Captain to my right with an order. He reached for it, but fell. I turned to a nearby Lieutenant to hand him the order, but he was not there. He too had been killed by my side. I turned to a buck private, the only available man, and sent him with the message. He never returned, but delivered the message, (applause.) Severe thunderstorms would seem to break open the heavens, amid the shrieking shells but—we had to drive. From September 12th until the armistice was signed we were not one consecutive hour away from gunfire. Where the Americans fought the Germans, the Americans whipped the Germans, (applause.) They were invincible. Sixty hours without food and steady physical work will reduce your flesh, and the spirits of some, but we made them call time."

Col. Smith said there were heroes, except himself, among the Generals, Captains, Colonels, Lieutenants and on down the line, "but when you reach the rank of the buck private, there you have the hero," he commented. "I am a Colonel on reserve and as such will have to help pay the bonus to the soldier, but I am willing. I want that done. It is not too much. I will gladly pay my share, not as charity, but as a matter of justice. I want the regular guardsman and national army man who was present to hear the tat tat tat of the machine guns placed on a par with the man who heard the tat tat tat of the riveting machines," (applause.)

The Colonel closed with the statement that although the ranks of his battalion would have been wiped out, had it not been for instructions he had received from the General staff had been brought from over 1200 to less than 400, but the "men were still there and what was left, was ready to go on when the command was issued," (applause.)

His tribute to Major Henry T. Allen, C. O., of the 90th division, who is "all that and more, a Kentucky Gentleman," brought rounds of applause. He will give $5 for the new Post head-

as you and will and I best usion of Homer ing men lication

Anti-Ken spoke audience Christian ce with quaint ers who reflect army, old and tribute to the s made former members glow with pleasure, but his tribute to Major General Henry T. Allen, C. O., of the 90th Division who "is all that and more, a Kentucky gentleman," elicited a storm of applause. Col. Kingman, Col. E. D. V. Murphy and other staff officers were spoken of in terms of affectionate appreciation, and the Buck private present glowed when the speaker said "The privates after all won the war."

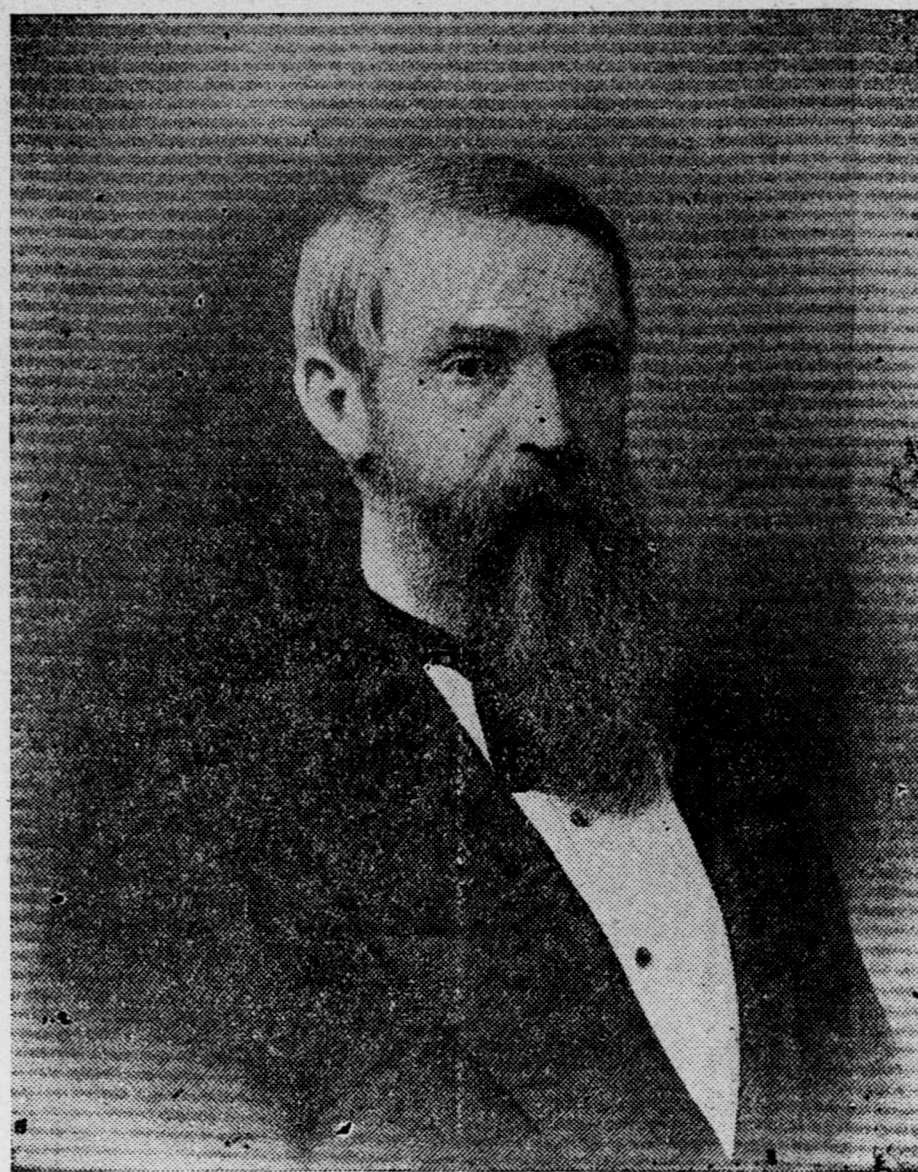

Col. Smith explained that the Battalion of Death was but a nick name given his battalion, and that such records are not known in the army headquarters files. His address was devoid of self praise, every incident of valor being credited to some soldier or officer of the 90th.

Taken in all, Col. Smith's speech was a wonderful tribute to the soldiers of America and a strong appeal for a better Americanism. His plea for temperance was based on first—what the soldiers fought for—"Humanity, the Constitution, and the Flag." The community has been deeply touched by this American soldier, this American fighter.

Fiscal Court Next Week

One week from Tuesday, which will be the last day of May, the fiscal court will convene and the finishing of plans for road improvements will be one of the features. There will be little to do, in the opinion of Judge W. K. Price, who will preside, since most of the road work and appropriations have been attended to.

Distinguished Citizen of Madison Born 100 Years Ago Today

The Late Curtis Field Burnam

A community grows rich in tradition and historic interest both to its own citizens and to outsiders just in proportion as the names of its distinguished dead are kept in remembrance and revered. The glory of Ancient Greece and Rome rests not on their specimens of art and architecture, although they were wonderful and have been the wonder and admiration of succeeding ages, but rather upon the wonderful names of the men and women given by them to history.

"There is one glory, death cannot disown, the princes of the mind shine as undimmed as the stars." The writer has read with pleasure one or more articles in The Daily Register signed "An Old Timer" and I hope sincerely that "An Old Timer" will continue to use his pen for the benefit of the Daily Register and its readers.

One hundred years ago today, May 24th a child was born in a little house, part of which is still standing on Irvine street and was called by his parents, Curtis Field Burnam. He was sprung from Revolutionary Ancestry on both his paternal and maternal side,—John Burnam and John Field having participated in the struggle for American Independence. He thus inherited an intense love for both his native state and his country.

He received his preparatory education at the old Madison Male Seminary. This school was organized in 1824 and for fifty years afforded a liberal education for all who availed themselves of its advantages, besides preparing many youths for the best colleges in our country. Modern courses in both the schools and colleges of the present day, were unknown in the education of the period; classical courses being pursued almost exclusively then. Mr. Burnam after completing a thorough preparatory course, went to New Haven, Conn., and spent nearly four years at Yale College. This journey in 1837 was a very long one, requiring more than two weeks, being accomplished mostly by means of coaches. He enjoyed his College days extremely and became a most accomplished classical and English scholar. He read during his whole life Latin authors in the original tongue, while his knowledge of the best English authors was remarkable. He received many college honors, and was chosen to deliver the valedictory for his class—1840. On his return from college he began the study of law with Judge Daniel Breck, and after graduating from the Transylvania Law School, was sworn in as a member of the Richmond Bar.

Here he lived and labored and died. For nearly seventy years he continued his work. His was a rare experience and comes to few. He was a member of the State Legislature, a State Senator, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury during President Grant's second term, a member of the Constitutional Convention of 1890. He was a member of many National Conventions and knew well the distinguished men of his party. From 1859-1863, he was the leader of the Union party in the State Legislature and became their candidate for United States Senator. During his whole life he took a most active interest in every enterprise which had for its purpose the upbuilding of his community and state, and the betterment of his fellowmen. His counsel and voice were ever on the side of justice, and the oppressed. He always advocated internal improvements, better roads—better schools.

Mr. Burnam travelled much, read more, and from both he gleaned knowledge useful alike to himself and entertaining to his friends. He was a brilliant advocate and a most charming speaker, and aside from his profession was continually called upon for public occasions. He was also a most gifted writer and any article he chose to pen was gladly accepted by the press, while his letters written both at home and from abroad to members of his family and his friends deserved to be compiled.

Mr. Burnam might be termed a connecting link between Revolutionary and Pioneer days, and the Post Bellum period. He knew many soldiers of the Revolution and nearly all the pioneers of our own and adjoining counties. His knowledge of Madison county's early history had it been preserved, would have been most valuable and interesting for our own and later generations.

Mr. Burnam had a true appreciation of the beautiful both in art and nature. His home, Burnamwood, attractive from within and without, was ever a source of delight to him, and was doubtless so to all who enjoyed its hospitality and the kindness which characterized its owner.

His married life was a long and happy one, and much of the success of his life was attributable to her who shared every joy, every struggle, every sorrow. He was from early life an earnest member of the Baptist church, and a devoted Mason. From every standard he was a man, and nothing human was foreign to him. His was a long life of great usefulness, and among the many names which enrich the history of our country there will not be one, "taken for all in all," of higher rank than his. He died March 19th, 1920.

BELoved WOMAN DIES IN LEXINGTON

Many near relatives and friends deeply sympathize with Mr. Overton H. Chenault, of Lexington, in the death of his wife, Saturday, May 22. Mrs. Chenault made her home in Richmond for a time after her marriage and by her winning and attractive personality won for herself a host of friends. The Lexington Leader had the following in regard to her death:

Mrs. Lida McCann Chenault, wife of Overton H. Chenault, and one of Lexington's most beloved women, died at her home, 227 South avenue, Saturday night at 9:15 o'clock, following an illness of several months.

For some time Mrs. Chenault had suffered from heart trouble which was aggravated by a recent attack of la grippe, but not until the last few days did her illness take a serious turn. Everything that medical skill could devise, or the loving ministrations of family and friends could suggest, was done for her relief, but to no avail.

Mrs. Chenault was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McCann who for years resided on the Winchester road near this city. She was a member of the First Baptist church and was not only active in church work, but interested in charity and civic betterment, contributing freely of her time and means in aiding every worthy movement.

She was a woman of beautiful Christian character, and was devoted to her home and family. She was ever ready to extend a helping hand to others and all who knew her felt the charm of kindness and amiability. The news of her death will be heard with deep regret by a large circle of friends who loved and admired her for her many graces of mind and heart.

Besides her husband, she is survived by three daughters—Mrs. John G. Stoll and Miss Elizabeth Chenault, of Lexington, and Mrs. James W. Thompson, of Paris; one brother, W. E. McCann, and one sister, Mrs. Sarah M. Elmore. Funeral services will be held at the family residence this afternoon at 4 o'clock, Rev. J. W. Porter, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating. Interment will follow in the family lot in the Lexington cemetery.

The pallbearers will be David P. Eastin, Walter Chenault, James W. Thompson, John G. Stoll, Bryant.

LANCASTER YOUNG MAN DROWNS IN DIX RIVER

Son of Fred Frisbie Seized With Cramps While Swimming With Centre College Chums

A number of relatives and friends here were shocked Sunday to learn of the drowning in Dix river Saturday of Hudson Frisbie, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred P. Frisbie, of Lancaster. A dispatch tells the story of the youth's untimely death as follows:

"While four girl friends looked helplessly on, Hudson Frisbie, 18 years old, a freshman at Centre College, was drowned in Dix river below the waterworks dam, five miles from Danville, about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. His home was in Lancaster.

"Frisbie was a member of a picnic party from Centre College and the Kentucky College for Women that had gone up the river to spend the day. Together with 'Red' Roberts and four young women, left the party at King's Mills and went in swimming.

"It is thought that the young man was seized with cramps. He shouted for help, but within a few seconds he had been sucked under the water by the swift current. Roberts went to his rescue and in his attempt to save his companion almost lost his own life. The body was taken to the home of his parents in Lancaster Saturday night. The burial took place in the Lancaster cemetery today.

"BLOND BOSS" TELLS OF WOOD SLUSH FUND

(By Associated Press)

Washington, May 24.—Frank Hitchcock, one of Gen. Woods' campaign managers, told the senate investigating committee today that far as he knew the largest sum spent in any state by the Wood organization was $15,000, in New Jersey and added the next largest was $12,500, in Maryland.

Hitchcock said he had nothing to do with the campaign contributed $45,000,000 to this total.

The contributors. Angus McSweeney, eastern campaign manager for Senator Johnson, of California, told the committee the total contributions for Johnson's campaign was $68,130; the largest sum was $27,000 from R. B. Straussberger, of Mristown, Tenn. William Flynn, of Pittsburgh, furnished $7,500, witness said. It is said the Johnson organization spent $13,000 in New butins and did not know about Jersey and $8,790 in Indiana.

BIG DAYLIGHT HAUL IN PENNSYLVANIA

(By Associated Press)

Pittsburg, Pa., May 24.—The First National bank at Finleyville, near here, was held up and robbed shortly afternoon today by six men who escaped, according to word received by the police. The bandits are said to have escaped with $100,000 in bonds and securities and $15,000 in cash. The cashier, who was the only man in the bank, was locked in the vault. A sheriff's posse is pursuing.

CUPID CALLS, COURT STOPS

(By Associated Press)

When Abra Hall, 24, a farmer residing near Paint Lick, and Miss Nannie Tampusley, 22, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tampusley, of near that place procured license to marry, Monday afternoon, they sought out Judge W. K. Price, of the County court, who was a very busy man. He adjourned court for a few minutes and tied the nuptial knot.

That looked for "real summer weather" has apparently arrived.

SUDDEN DEMISE OF MRS. DAVE G. MARTIN

Well Known Woman Succumbs To Apoplexy After A Few Hours' Illness

Mrs. Dave G. Martin, 65 years old, died at the family residence early Monday morning of apoplexy after an illness of a few hours, superinduced, according to the attending physician, Dr. H. G. Sandlin, by influenza, suffered some time ago. The funeral services will be conducted Tuesday morning at the residence at 11 o'clock, Dr. Homer W. Carpenter officiating. Interment was in the Richmond cemetery.

The death of Mrs. Martin, who was a member of the Christian church, proved a great shock to her many friends in Richmond and Madison, where she was extensively and favorably known and loved by all who knew her as the possessor of a beautiful Christian spirit and her lovable disposition won for her the sincerest regard of all.

Mrs. Martin was apparently in good health Sunday, having attended church in the morning after which she accompanied her husband from their home, about two miles east of the city on the Irvine pike, to Richmond, where they were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Walker.

Besides a husband, G. D. Martin, the following relatives survive: one brother, T. M. Oldham, of Abbots, Miss., two brothers-in-law Judge J. C. Chenault and Col. N. B. Deatherage.

KENTUCKY WITNESS IN DEMPSEY CASE

A dispatch from Lexington to the Louisville Times Saturday, said:

United States Deputy Marshal Oscar Vest, of Lexington, returned from Moberly county, where he summoned Miss Nancy Nichols to appear in San Francisco as a witness in the trial of "Jack" Dempsey, heavyweight boxing champion of the world, for alleged evasion of the draft laws. The trial will begin June 6, Vest said. Miss Nichols will leave shortly for California. She is a friend of the divorced wife of the champion, and is regarded as an important witness in the case.

SEVERE FIGHTING CONTINUING TODAY

(By Associated Press)

Warsaw, May 24.—Bolsheviks are attacking in waves on the northern fighting front in thrust to break the Polish lines and open communication with East Prussia. The fiercest fighting months is raging along a 90-mile battlefield. Villages are changing hands daily and lines are swaying to and fro. The latest official advices say the Bolsheviks have been thrown back at most places, suffering heavy losses in all cases.

A REAL CITY SIGN

(By Associated Press)

Even if the White Way has been postponed for a little while Richmond was given a touch of real lighting in an advertising way Saturday night when the new electric sign of the Richmond Welch Company was turned on. It has to be seen to be appreciated, but there isn't a classier or more attractive sign of the kind in Lexington or anywhere else. It flashes the name of the firm in bold letters, alternately in white and red, and gives Richmond a real "city" appearance.

HE FEELS LIKE A "NEW MADE MAN"

Was In Misery Every Minute Of Day And Night Before Taking Tanlac

A. C. Carpenter, 1905 Virginia avenue, Huntington, West Virginia, bill clerk for the Huntington Lumber Supply Company, is still another who has cause to be glad he was induced to give Tanlac, the "Master Medicine," an honest trial.

"Talking about things that help people," said Mr. Carpenter recently, "Tanlac has done me more good than anything else I ever got hold of. Before I took it I had been in the worst kind of a fix for more than a year, but now I am just like a new made man."

"I had gotten in such a bad shape on account of stomach trouble, loss of appetite and poor indigestion that I was constantly losing time from my work. My wife would fix up all kinds of good things trying to tempt my appetite, but after eating a mouthful or two my stomach would rebel and I simply had to leave the table without eating any more. What little I did manage to force down would sour, causing gas and such violent pains in my stomach that I could hardly stand it. Sometimes I suffered so that everything seemed blurred to me and while these spells were on me—and they usually lasted for several minutes—I couldn't see. When not in pain I felt sluggish and drowsy and wanted to sleep, but my sleep was unnatural and did not seem to rest me."

"I was under treatment several times, but no one seemed to understand my case and I kept getting worse until there was hardly a minute night or day but what I was in misery. I read a statement in the paper describing a case like mine that Tanlac had relieved, but as I had always been prejudiced against advertised medicines, I passed it up, believing it would not help me. But one day, I was talking with a friend who had taken Tanlac with fine results, and he told me if I tried it and it did not help me he would refund my money out of his own pocket. Well, I bought a bottle and sure enough, just as he told me, I had not finished taking it before there was a marked improvement in my condition. Then I got another bottle and now my stomach trouble is gone entirely. The headaches have also left me and my sleep is natural, sound and restful. I am working regularly every day now and feel just fine, but, honestly, I don't believe I would have gotten well if I had not taken Tanlac. I just want to give all the praises, thanks and gratitude I can find words to express to Tanlac and my friend who persuaded me to try it, and from now on I will never doubt anything good I read or hear about it."

HEALTH WEEK CLOSES AT NORMAL

"Health is Wealth," such is the opinion at Eastern Kentucky State Normal School. The past week has been "Health Week." Representatives of the State Board of Health have been showing moving picture films and presenting health lessons in such a way that every student will think twice before health laws are broken.

Dr. A. T. McCormack, secretary of the State Board of Health, Miss Jessie Yancey, State Director of the Modern Health Crusaders, and Dr. Whitenberg, State Sanitary Inspector, have given instructive and stimulating talks in chapel. Mrs. Jane T. Dahlgren, Director of the School for Health Officers and Public Health Nurses, gave a very helpful and practical lesson in nutrition. Miss Nell Peterson, Assistant State Bacteriologist, made a careful examination of the students for hookworm. Dr. W. B. Smock represented the interests of the Red Cross.

"The films shown were the very latest health films. 'Come Clean,' prepared by the Army Medical Corps, made every one want to spend a little more time each day brushing teeth. 'An Equal Chance,' was a plea for a public health nurse. It showed how the nurse can make herself useful, so useful in fact that she soon becomes indispensable. 'The Modern Health Crusade,' in a fascinating way, gives the teacher an idea how to make her pupils 'Health Knights.' The Modern Health Crusade Movement makes a game or contest of washing hands and face, brushing teeth, eating the right kind of food, and taking plenty of exercise. Before the children realize it they have acquired habits which form the foundation of good health. Films, sent out by the United States Public Health Service, illustrating the results of venereal diseases, were also shown. Arrangements have been made to show these films at the Richmond theatres in the near future.

Parks Wants Action

Bertie Parks, arrested recently for violating the prohibition laws, is anxious to pay a fine of $100 assessed by City Judge Smith, and "get action," as he terms it. He will receive this at the hands of Uncle Sam, as soon and perhaps before he has served the jail sentence attached to his fine.

Political Announcements

For Congress
RALPH GIBBERT, of Shelby County.
FRANK RIFY, of Anderson county.

The Daily Register wishes that more of the history of Madison would be written by those who are competent to do so. Too few of the present generation have any knowledge of the distinguished men that lived their lives, and made history right here, a few years gone. "An Old Timer" has been contributing some very interesting historical reminiscences and facts, and today the Daily Register is pleased to be able to tell the life history of a man who was born in Richmond a hundred years ago, and after a long and useful life, departed with the impress of his personality firmly and indelibly implanted upon this community. Lacking a book of the history of old Madison, there is no more tangible means of acquainting the young men and women of today with the high spots in the community's past, than through the columns of the press, and the Daily Register always welcomes contributions as have recently been written by "Old Timer" and the tribute to the late Curtis Field Burnam, which is presented on the first page of this issue.

Col. Dan Morgan Smith, here Saturday, said confidentially to a Daily Register representative, while on the way to his hotel: "Say, now, this is a nice little town and I'll bet it is a good little town. The people seem good and I have already found that there is plenty of good eating here."

The team led in hitting and batting and it was during the sixth inning with the bases full that Rogers pulled one of those three baggers and piled up the scores that made them safe for the day. BLOOD KILLS DISEASE GERMS

Pure, Healthy Blood Destroys Germs, Removes The Waste Tissue And Rebuilds Bone And Muscle

If Your Blood Is Weak, Don't Delay

Take Gude's Pepto-Mangan, The Red Blood Builder

In your body are two gallons (more or less) of blood, which is constantly at work keeping your system free from germs, removing the waste tissues, and building up new strength in bone and muscle.

This blood must be healthy or your resistance to disease and fatigue will be lowered, you will lose weight, and both body and mind will have less vigor.

For building up blood weakened by overwork, illness or other causes, Gude's Pepto-Mangan, for years prescribed by physicians, is now generally known as a prompt and harmless tonic.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan soon produces marked beneficial results. The tired, worn-out, run-down feeling disappears. And in its stead a vigorous, wholesomeness and happiness proves that the blood has been supplied with the sorely needed richness to supply the entire system with renewed strength.

When you buy Pepto-Mangan at your druggist's, be sure the name "Gude's" is on the package. You can get it in either liquid or tablet form. If the name "Gude's" is not on the package it is not Pepto-Mangan.—Adv.

BABY NAMED LYDIA E.

Because Her Mother Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I could not write all my thanks for your blessed medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in a very bad condition and had lost two babies. One of my good friends told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and after I had taken eight or ten bottles I felt like a different woman. I kept on taking it until my baby girl was born last month and we have had her christened Lydia Elizabeth. I wish you to publish my letter to benefit other women who are suffering as I was."—Mrs. KATHERINE KUNZACKER, 1086 Manhattan Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Women who suffer from any feminine ailment should not lose hope until they have tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The many convincing testimonials constantly published in the newspapers ought to be proof enough for women who suffer from these distressing ills peculiar to their sex that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the medicine they need.

"THE AMATEUR WIFE" IS INTERESTING BILL

A miniature musical comedy enacted upon the stage of one of the best known New York theatres was photographed for the screen in the new Irene Castle picture, "The Amateur Wife," which will be the attraction at the local theatres tonight. According to the story, Mrs. Castle is a French convent girl lately arrived in America to find her mother a musical comedy queen. She appears in the scene while her mother is performing and is scandalized by the rather abbreviated costume which her fond parent wears.

Girls from one of the popular Broadway revues were engaged for the scene and disported before the footlights under the guiding hand of Director Edward Dillion.

Terrible Tortures From Itching Skin Diseases

No Sure Relief Until the Cause Is Removed.

When the blood becomes infected with millions of tiny disease germs that attack the skin, then the fiery irritation and intense itching will remain with you until these germs are removed from the blood.

Genuine relief therefore, can only be expected from a treatment that goes right to the seat of the trouble, and strikes at its cause. Such a remedy is S. S. S., the reliable old blood purifier that kills the germs of disease, and sends a new supply of rich red blood coursing through the veins.

S. S. S. has been used successfully in some of the worst cases of eczema and other skin disorders.

summer as unfit for food are fertile eggs in which the germ has started to develop. A temperature of seventy degrees will start the germ in a fertile egg to slowly developing. A fertile egg, subject to a temperature for food, while an infertile egg may be subjected to the same temperature for a week and still be perfectly good for cooking purposes. The simple expedient of shutting up or disposing of the adult male birds as soon as the hatching season is over, if it should become the general custom, would result in the saving of millions of dollars worth of eggs every season. Another important advantage in having no males in the laying pens is the fact that the hens without males running with them are much more gentle and quiet. The male is a disturbing factor.

The demand for eggs for table use is not as large as last year, and while receipts are somewhat lighter, they are ample for present requirements. April and May eggs are of the highest quality, and as a result, a good proportion are placed in storage. A part of the June production is also placed in storage, but as we approach the summer weather, eggs are not the satisfactory quality which they show in the cooler spring months, and the demand for storage is therefore limited. It is of the utmost importance that eggs be gathered daily, kept in a cool place and marked frequently.

Cream production is increasing, due to improved pasture conditions. Selling prices are generally lower in the large consuming centers, which has resulted in somewhat lower prices for butterfat in producing territories. Movement of poultry has shown increase during the week, without any marked change in values. Storage stocks are lighter than usual.

But Certain-teed Roofing provides far more than a roof that is easily laid. It is guaranteed for five, ten or fifteen years, according to weight. It has never been known to wear out on the roof. It is weather-proof, fire-retarding and spark-proof.

Though there is a shortage of many kinds of roofing, you can always get Certain-teed Smooth-Surfaced Roofing.
